Standards of Foreign Language Learning

Tutor Enterprises' software and workbooks reflect the five underlying principles expressed in the "Standards of Foreign Language Learning.

Communication: A learner has

- 1) the opportunity to hear correct pronunciation of Spanish as spoken in the Americas and Spain in our spoken bilingual dictionary and throughout the production
- 2) a springboard for conversation and for expressing his own opinions, thoughts and feelings.
- 3) insight into the workings of language and the Spanish language in particular culminating in an understanding of the underlying rules of language which permit him to understand and interpret spoken and written Spanish.

Cultures of the world: A learner develops an appreciation and an understanding of the Spanish-speaking world, its rich cultural variations and commonalities such as modes of address, socio-linguistics (what and how to say it in a social setting), customs, meals, etc.

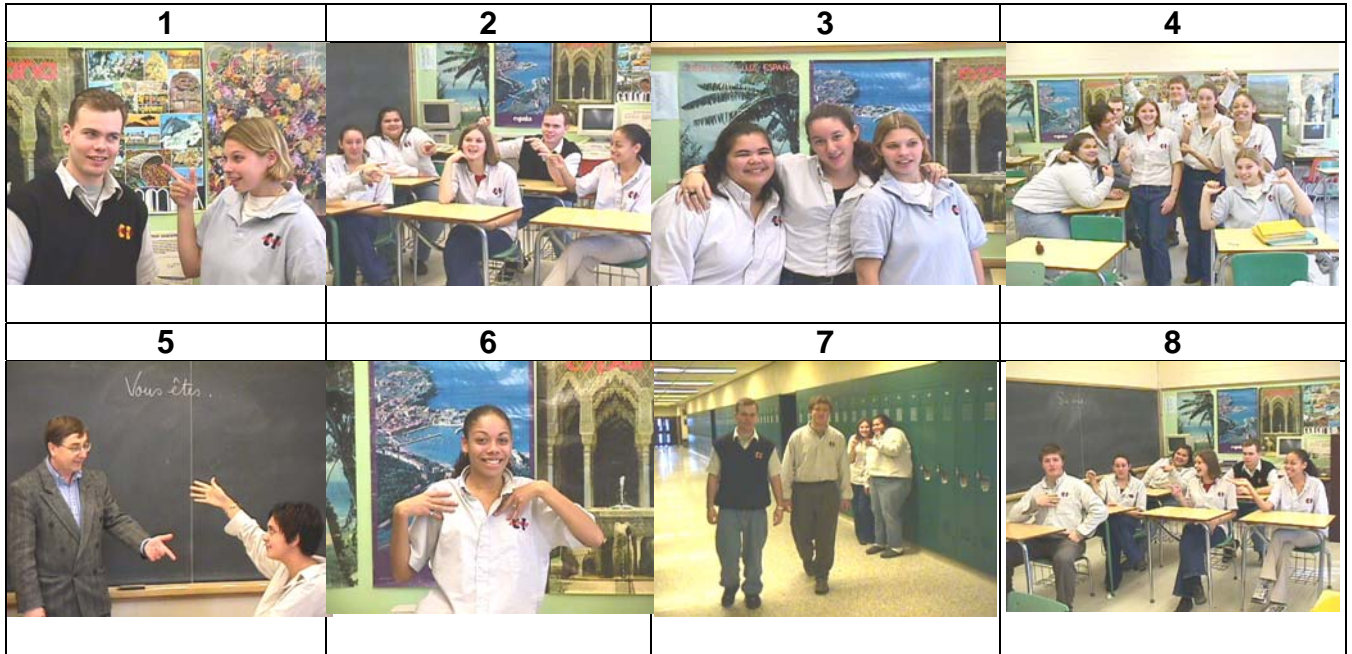

Comparative Linguistics and Cultural Comparisons: A learner develops an awareness of differences and also similarities in the English and Spanish languages and in the civilizations they reflect.

Connections to other disciplines: Language does not exist in a vacuum and is a reflection of human experience. This material links language to geography, history, art, foods, technology for everyday living, telling time, talking about weather, describing people, events and scenes as language is used as a vehicle to learn in other areas of human experience.

Communities at home and abroad: Students are encouraged to become life-long learners as they use the target language for enjoyment and to enrich their lives. A connection of the Spanish language and communities where it is spoken is established. Learners are encouraged to become aware of jobs and professions that require, or are enhanced by a knowledge of Spanish.
